WE NOMINATE

The eight Princetonians who this week—with the opening of the 13th season of the Princeton Adult School—are recording an educational "first" in launching a ten-lecture course on the crying problem of our times, "America Faces Russia." While all 24 of the School's courses merit attention and burgeoning enrollments, this particular venture stands forth as a bold, adult approach to some of the fundamental differences existing between East and West and as the kind of undertaking which demands a remarkable degree of balance in presenting such obvious contrasts as American and Russian civil liberties and American and Russian Federalism.

Peter Putnam, whose beautifully written account of how he accepted and threw back the challenge of sudden and total blindness ranks among "Princeton's Best Books of the Decade," was largely responsible for adding the course to the Adult School's curriculum. An authority on 18th century Russian history, the 34-year old teacher-scholar enlisted the assistance of seven other members of the University Faculty: four of his associates in History, one in Politics and two in the Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. Putnam, however, is the first to point out that the idea was not his, for he emphasizes that it was the eminent French political scientist, Alexis de Tocqueville, who wrote in the 1830's that these two powers (America and Russia) are "marked by Heaven" to play dominant roles in world affairs.

The products of a half-dozen different universities; and averaging 32-plus years in age, the eight-man faculty's scholarly interests range from "controlling subversive activities in this country" to the "career and writings of Josef Stalin." Two members of the octet, Putnam and Klaus Knorr, will handle two sessions apiece. The former will sound the keynote—comparisons and contrasts—and will also give the concluding lecture. On successive Thursday evenings Knorr, distinguished German-born economist and an expert in the sphere of international relations, will tap two decades of research in analyzing the nations' opposing economic systems.

Harold Chase, a Purple Heart veteran of the Iwo Jima campaign and also a veteran of the Korean War, and Cyril Black, who has served both the United States and the United Nations in the Balkans and Eastern Europe, will be "paired" on the questions of civil liberties. The cultural development of the two powers will be the concern of Charles Sellers, Assistant Professor and Bicentennial Preceptor in History, and 24-year old Robert McNeal, whose military service included four years with Military Intelligence. John Reshetar, brilliant author of the about-to-be-published Problems of Analyzing and Predicting Soviet Behavior, and Martin Lichterman, specialist in 19th century American history and winner of six World War II battle stars, complete the panel.

For tightening the bonds between Town and Gown; for giving their fellow Princetonians opportunities to broaden their understanding of some of the factors which led to the creation of "two 20th Century worlds;" for strengthening the traditions of one of the community's most respected institutions, the Adult School; these eight are TOWN TOPICS' nominees for School Reports. In a community whose school population is growing at a rate difficult to chart but invariably faster than the best estimates of as little as five years ago, budgets to meet the necessary expenditures are sure to be higher. In Princeton Township, expenditures for the year that will start next fall will show an increase of some $47,000, a jump of about 14%. In the borough, where construction will start on the expanded high school and interest and amortization will begin on the $1,715,000 bond issue, the outlay will be $175,500 greater—a jump of 21%.

The tax differential in the borough will be an additional $51,300, a figure that will mean 21 points in the 1955 rate. The amount actually is four points lower than that forecast last spring when the expansion program was first blueprinted.

Because no final estimate of the big jump in rateables is yet available in the township, the school budget increase cannot currently be translated into points. Last year, a similar hike in expenditures eventually meant a 33-point boost for school purposes, but in the intervening period of 12 months, the multi-million dollar shopping center and scores of new homes have been built. The township tax increase should accordingly be lower than it was a year ago, when a 48-point overall jump was recorded.

In the Borough. The municipality is on the verge of recognizing that its public education plant is a million-dollar business. The projected $175,500 increase raises annual expenditures for 1955-56 to $989,500.

Actually, less than a third of the additional funds needed for expansion and salary increments for all personnel will be contributed by borough taxpayers. The bulk of the additional revenues will come from nine sending districts, whose higher tuition payments will net approximately $100,000. State aid will also be $25,700 greater.

While debt service in the borough budget will be some $54,000 higher, salary increments will account for nearly $70,000 more. Other items that will be up include fuel, $3,000 more; utilities, operational supplies and insurance, $1,000 more apiece.

In both the borough and township, public hearings on the budgets have been set for Tuesday, January 18. The annual district elections will take place Tuesday, February 8.

In the Township. The $47,000 jump in township costs will give that municipality a school budget of $442,700. A part of the increase will be absorbed by additional state aid amounting to approximately $20,000.

Various factors account for the 14% increase in costs. Tuition paid to the borough for students sent to the high school will go from $390 to a maximum of $475, while the number of pupils sent will rise from 220 to approximately 250.

An "across-the-board" salary raise is planned for the teachers and staff, while two new teachers, as well as a third who will provide bedside instruction for sick pupils, will be added. This trio will draw a total of about $10,000 in salaries while the increments for present personnel will total $23,000. As is the case in the borough, township teaching salaries are above the mini-

End of "Junk Mail" Hailed

Residents of Princeton and mail carriers, in common with most other communities and hard-working postmen throughout the U.S., last week received a welcome if belated Christmas present from the Postmaster General. "Junk mail" — the type delivered without being addressed—has been outlawed as of March 31.

A major factor in slowing daily mail delivery while simultaneously adding to the postal deficit, this type of advertising circular weighed down the postman and met largely with wastebasket reception. Carriers occasionally were required to take as many as five pieces of mail on the same day to every stop on their routes.

While regulations will not change for rural routes and holders of post office boxes, delivery of mail by foot carrier after March 31 will be made only when properly addressed by street and number. TOWN TOPICS, using an electric addressing machine and several thousand stencils, has followed such a procedure since it began to publish nine years ago next March.

You KNOW!

AND, OF COURSE, with someone who knows you. Someone who lives in the same town, the same community, and sees you as more than just another customer, another source of business. Someone who sees you as a familiar face, a friend, who probably knows you by your first name.

PHARMACY is a business that is based on friendship. When you know your druggist, you know also that you get the best—because he's more than your druggist; he's your neighbor.

Another sizable item is an additional $5,000 in transportation costs, while the addition of a secretary to the school staff will require a $2,600 outlay. On the other hand, non-recurring items in the athletic and maintenance budgets will save $1,000 and $6,000 respectively.

"State of the Borough." Borough residents this week got a look at the past 12 months' effect on their municipality, as well as a glimpse at the future. It came in the form of Mayor Sturges' annual New Year Day address, delivered at noon Saturday in Borough Hall.

Among the major problems confronting the town (each with a familiar ring to it), the mayor listed these four:

- Gross inequitable property assessments — which cannot in fairness to Princeton be adjusted until the move is undertaken at the county level;
- The inadequacy of the Public Library, a building minute in size when compared to a population of more than 15,000 it serves from both borough and township;
- The need for a highway bypass to remove heavy traffic from Bayard Lane, Stockton and Nassau Streets and Washington Road;

Republican Economy

Mayor Sturges' sense of humor, which has permeated many a routine council session, got the New Year's Day reorganization meeting at Borough Hall off to a light-hearted start. After swearing in his fellow Republicans, Councilmen Tristam B. Johnson and Charles J. Rocknak, the Mayor remarked:

"A year ago, when two members of the opposition party began their terms, large floral tributes marked the occasion. We Republicans believe not only in flowers but also in economy."

He thereupon presented Messrs. Johnson and Rocknak each with a single blossom for their buttonholes.

- The facilities and advantages of a new street parallel to Nassau — a development discussed and debated for a quarter-century but about to receive increasing attention through the projected YM-YWCA building between Bayard Lane and John Street.

In contrast to other years (primarily 1953, when consolidation and off-street parking issues came to white heat), Mayor Sturges termed the year just ended "more or less routine." The borough's growth has slowed, he noted, now estimated at approximately 13,500, including resident students.

Ratables have increased by some $378,000, with total taxable property standing at $20,294,000, but these figures, too, in common with the municipality's population will in a short time become fairly static. Virtually all residential property in the borough is in use, new construction by the educational institutions is normally non-taxable and business-area development is not on the immediate horizon.

In sharp contrast with Princeton Township, where two development projects alone accounted for more than 75 homes, only 35 new houses were built in the borough last year. When four others were torn down, it set the net increase at 31.

Progress Recorded. Mayor Sturges listed these accomplishments for 1954:

- Opening of the 17-acre Marquand Park to the public, with proper fencing and off-street parking facilities to be undertaken during the coming months;
- Strengthening of the zoning ordinance, as well as the introduction of plans which will enable home-owners in the northeastern sector of the borough to convert single-family houses into two-family dwellings. Completion of the latter regulations is scheduled for early 1955.
- Acquistion of municipal ownership of Stanley Avenue and Leavitt Lane, thus providing for their residents municipal services long overdue because of their inferior construction by the developer.
- Steps to expand the sewage treatment and incinerator plants (at a total cost of some $200,000 through a bond issue to be floated within the next few week.)

Re Off-Street Parking. The mayor had two thoughts on the subject of off-street parking, the topic that had caused no little acrimony at public meetings during the summer of 1953 and in the ensuing election. He commented:

"While the voters in November, 1953, turned down the proposal to furnish off-street parking facilities within the business area, the need, as forecast, continues to increase and with the

It's New to Us

Soft Soap. Own a dishwasher? In hard or soft water, whichever you have, a new product called Dish Magic, dispensed by the Culligan Soft Water people, will do your dishes cleaner and less recklessly than almost any other product you might toss into the washer.

Dish Magic is made by a man in Jersey City who retails it locally through the Culligan Service, a division of Nassau Oil Company on the State Road. For $4.50 you get 12 pounds of Dish Magic, and considering the fact that you use only half a teaspoon of the stuff if you have soft water and one tablespoon if you have hard water, this investment will keep you in clean dishes for several light years.

Anxious housewives will be particularly glad to hear that Dish Magic is mild and will not etch fine china as many dishwashing compounds most regrettably do.

The companion of Dish Magic is Cul Soap, developed as you might guess, for the Culligan company and made according to their specifications. This product is made for washing machines that use soft water. With Cul you can use as little as 1½ coffee measuring spoons per washer load if you have a Bendix, up to four measures if you have a whirlpool, with other brands falling in between. Both these products are sold on a money-back guarantee.

Sitters on Tap. A new Baby Sitting Bureau in town guarantees you a sitter for any hour of the day or night, and the best recommendation we can give is that the Bureau filled every request for a New Year's Eve sitter.

To join, you pay $1 a month and for this fee you draw on a panel of 26 sitters that have been personally interviewed by the Bureau and their references thoroughly examined and filed away. Sitters include high-school students, grandmothers, and all ages in between.

The sitter herself sets the fee, ranging from 50c to $1 an hour. One, who is a trained nurse, commends the $1 fee. Call the Bureau's number—4488—as late as mid-afternoon if you want an evening at the movies, and no matter how often you call during the month, the $1 fee remains.

Accustomed. Women who are beginning to sketch in the outlines of a spring and summer wardrobe (or a late winter one: there's plenty of time) may now have custom designed clothes from two Princeton shops.

The first is Elise Goupil, 217 Nassau, who has a new line of dresses for women in straight and half sizes. These dresses are almost custom made; you select from a group of 25 different styles, perhaps choosing a sleeve from this dress, the skirt of that one, a V-neck instead of a jewel neckline and so on. Select the fabric you want from a whole shuffle of swatches, perhaps working out a blending of print and plain.

These fabrics are silk (plain or print), wools in varying weight and quality including jersey, rayon prints, linen or cotton. When you have selected the fabric and design, you are carefully measured and your exact measurements are sent to the firm in New York that makes the dresses.

If you like, you may have your dress in about a week, but Elise Goupil prefers to allow two weeks. Prices start at $49.50 and go up, depending on fabric. Extra trimming, such as a touch of red silk for a facing, are not extra in cost.

We saw several samples in this group of dresses, all of them cut with lines that mature women find becoming, whether they wear size 10 or 44. Ivory silk with bright red cherries and green leaves make one cheerful dress, teal green jersey drapes softly in another, and linen with contrasting slashes at the yoke turns out to be a versatile model adaptable to many fabrics. A dress in navy silk with small flame-red flowers could go north or south, year round.

Our other custom creator is Salvatore Ciccolella, formerly a designer with Phillip Mangone, formerly assistant designer with the old Jaeckel furrier establishment (in the pre-Gunther-Jaeckel days). Suits, coats, furs, neckpieces—Mr. Ciccolella has deft fingers and a designer's eye for style. We saw a coat he had made probable further development of business in the block facing the Elementary School it is likely that the owners of property in that area will request rather than oppose action and that the south side of Park Place may properly be the most suitable location for business district extension rather than the lengthening of the district to the Northeast on Nassau Street.

"The condition of South Tulane Street remains a disgrace to the Borough, with no proper curbs and gutters, a street too narrow for traffic and parking, and with ill-kept and poorly arranged private parking stalls. To have such conditions a few hundred feet from Nassau Street comparable to similar situations North of Nassau Street in the middle of town not many years ago seems incompatible with the orderly development of the Borough, but as long as present owners are satisfied with present conditions and are unwilling to cooperate in improvements involving fair recompense to them South Tulane Street seems destined to be the eyesore that it has been for some time."

Virtual elimination for the immediate future of the borough's ability to borrow funds for capital improvements was noted by Mr. Sturges in his address. The $1,715,000 high school bond issue of last fall exhausted its borrowing capacity and all but $4,000 of the borough's, the mayor said.

While the payment of maturing bonds will gradually restore this power it will be at the rate of less than $75,000 in 1955. "Therefore, it is obvious, he remarked, "that the borough can consider a minimum of capital expenditures in 1955 and no major projects for some years to come."

Sorenson Council Head. Prof. Alfred E. Sorenson will serve as president of the Borough Council for the next 12 months. A member of the University's School of Engineering faculty, he succeeds Tristam B. Johnson.

Mayor Sturges named Democrat Raymond F. Male as fire commissioner, with Councilmen J. Dayton Voorhees continuing as police commissioner. A Republican, Mr. Voorhees is starting his 5th year on the governing body. Other committee heads are Mr. Johnson, finance; Prof. Sorenson, public works; Richard W. Colman, buildings and grounds, and Charles J. Rockwell, welfare.

Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro was reappointed for a third three-year term. John H. Smith was named police chief, after serving in an acting capacity for the past three months.

Richard J. Paniccino and Ralph A. Procaccino began one-year terms as chancemen, with advancement to patrolman in the police department to follow on completion of 12 months' satisfactory service. All other borough officials were re-appointed.

Citizens appointed to volunteer positions include S. Webster Dodge and William N. Smyth, Zoning Board, three years each; Mrs. Walter Boers, Dr. Donald Pickering and Dr. Arthur K. Parpart, Board of Health, three years each; William R. Lewis, Local Assistance Board, four years; Dr. Henry L. Savage, trustee of Public Library, five years.

Mayor Wallace. Dr. John H. Wallace Jr. was unanimously elected Mayor of Princeton Township at Monday's reorganization meeting of the Township Committee. He succeeds Committeeman Albert Salzman, who stepped down after five years as the municipality's chief officer.

Mr. Salzman said that while he hoped to lighten his duties by giving up the office of mayor, his interest in Township Committee affairs was by no means diminishing. He was sworn in for his sixth term, having already served for 15 years covering a period of extreme activity in the Township.

Mayor Wallace, starting his sixth year on the committee, paid tribute to the long efforts of his predecessor as he took over the gavel. The other major change on the scene was the presence of two additional committeemen.

Ralph S. Mason and Hugh D. Wise, Jr., both attorneys, were also sworn in by Magistrate Louis Gerber and welcomed to the committee. Mr. Mason will serve a three-year term and Mr. Wise a two-year term.

The committee accepted the resignation of Charles S. Sincerbeaux as Township engineer after 45 years of service. Edward B. Van Note, Jr. was appointed as Mr. Sincerbeaux's successor.

Weather Report. The year that ended last Friday was so normal, weather-wise, that only the lack of snow brought a comment of "somewhat unusual" from the U.S. Weather Bureau in releasing its 1954 record for Mercer County. Figures show that 24 inches of snow is a winter's average, whereas no more than 10.1 were recorded. Virtually all of that fell in one 48-hour period—January 10 and 11, when some eight inches came cascading down.

Even Hurricane Hazel — of the three that struck the east failed to record an unusually high wind velocity. Highest guests were clocked at 57 miles an hour. Four years ago in November, the wind occasionally hit 100 miles an hour.

As for the temperature and precipitation, statistics eventually evened out almost exactly where they should in a normal year. The thermometer averaged 54.3 degrees over a year's time, compared to a combined figure for the past 70 years of 53.5.

Total rainfall was 37.6 inches, a little more than two inches below normal. The wettest month was drought-breaking August, when 7.7 inches fell, while the driest was June, with only 1.2 inches.

It was not quite a year ago that 1954's coldest day was recorded. January 18 went into the books with a low of seven.

The hottest day? On July 31, the mercury reached a steaming 99—in the shade, too.

Quiet, Please. Throwing firecrackers around at Christmastime is no way to celebrate the holiday season, Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro indicated Tuesday in borough court. To emphasize his opinion, he fined Henry J. Steppe, 12 Green Street, and Don Thompson, 384 Alexander Street, $25 each for the offense.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCloskey, Jr., of 29 North Harrison Street, pleaded guilty to fighting and drew $10 fines apiece. The charge was disorderly conduct. William H. Jones, 144 Witherspoon Street, paid $5 for using offensive language.

Traffic violators included Harold M. Weeks, 15 Deerpath Road, who paid $25 for careless driving, and Mrs. Dorothy Cocciolillo, Washington Street, Rocky Hill, who was fined $10 for speeding. Mrs. Elizabeth Penrose, Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, paid $7 for a similar offense, while Edward Sampson, Lafayette Road, was fined $4 for passing a "stop" sign.

New Year, Red Face. Mayor Sturges isn't ready to say officially whether he plans to retire from public office but he is understandably interested in an accurate report on the number of years he has served as head of the borough. Last week, TOWN TOPICS' story reporting that he might well not run for re-election regrettably credited him with only three years as mayor.

Back came this reply to set the mathematics straight:

To the Editors of TOWN TOPICS:

While the indication, in your current issue, that I may or may not run for another term as mayor, and your forecast of possible candidates for this venerable office may or may not be correct, I would like to call to your attention the fact that I am completing my fifth year and entering upon the sixth, not the shorter period you mention.

I am sorry to see such a progressive and valuable paper two years behind in its computations!

Death on the Highway. New Jersey traffic accidents claimed 798 lives during 1954, the second highest total in 13 years. Should persons seriously injured in the closing days of the year succumb, the total will climb still higher.

The state has thus lost its campaign to keep traffic deaths below the 1953 figure of 784. This year is off to a bad start, state officials report, with fatalities in the first three days of the year double those of the comparable 1954 period.

The value of semi-annual automobile inspections is clearly etched in figures which show that before the program was launched in 1938, fatalities exceeding 1,000 a year were common in New Jersey. With far less cars on the road in 1937 than there are today, the all-time peak in highway deaths was 1,278.

The next year, when the safety tests at state-operated stations were introduced, fatalities dropped all the way to 865. The low figure for the past quarter-century is 1949's 592, with the total increasing every 12 months since then save in 1953. That year saw a drop from 837 in 1952 to 784.

Model of "Y" on Display. An architectural scale model of Princeton's new joint YM-YWCA center will go on display at 12 noon Saturday with unveiling ceremonies at Palmer Square and Nassau Street.

Mayor P. MacKay Sturges of the Borough and Mayor John H. Wallace Jr. of the Township will take part, along with YM and YW officials, according to John P. Wooldridge, general chairman of the campaign to raise funds for the new "community house."

The model will remain on display in a glass case at the Palmer Square location. The program for the unveiling is being planned by John F. Becker, head of the special events committee for the drive. The general campaign will open on January 18.

The model has been built to enable residents of the community to visualize the project, particularly the exterior details and landscaping. It was made from blueprints and sketches furnished by Sherley W. Morgan and Kenneth Kassler, architects of the building.

The model is the work of Shau-Pan Lai, who came to this country in 1949 on a fellowship from the United Board for Christian Colleges in China to study school building design. He has been unable to return to the staff of Lingnam University in Canton because of the present Communist rule.

His model of the "community house" measures three-feet by four feet. All dimensions were reduced to 1/120th of actual size, so that one inch in the model equals ten feet of the new building.

Wood, paper, cardboard, plastics, metal and other materials were worked into the proper size and shape by hand. Colors used in finishing the model are the closest possible approximation to the colors of the building materials proposed by the architects.

The new joint YM-YW center will include a swimming pool, lounges, a main meeting room, offices, club rooms, exercise areas, a kitchen, snack bar and residence rooms. It will be operated jointly by the two service and recreation organizations.

Law Partnership Formed. The law firm of Mason and Griffin has been formed by two Princeton attorneys, Ralph S. Mason and Gordon D. Griffin. Offices are at 245 Nassau Street, where they have been practicing separately.

Mr. Mason is a member of the Class of 1936 at Princeton University, while Mr Griffin graduated in 1940. The former has just started a three-year term as a member of the Township Committee, while Mr. Griffin has served as the municipality's attorney for several years.

Morven to Be Studied Anew. The State of New Jersey, which has been pondering the problem for more than a year of what use to make of Morven, the historic pre-Revolutionary home of the Stockton family, will be aided in reaching a solution by a 14-man committee. Appointment of the group by Governor Meyner was announced this week by Dr. Joseph A. McLean of Random Road, Commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The Governor wrote each member of the group:

"Problems have arisen as to whether Morven should be a historic site, an executive mansion, or a combination of these; as to what type of rehabilitation or repair should be undertaken; as to whether financing should be public or combined with private donations." Results of the committee's decision should be made known to the Legislature, the Governor said.

Named to serve on the group are three residents of the Princeton area: Kenneth Chorley, of Hopewell, President of Colonial Williamsburg; Mrs. George H. Gallup of The Great Road, and Dr. John F. Sly of 18 Campbelton Circle, Director of Princeton Surveys.

Cook Paintings on Exhibit. An exhibition of paintings by Peter Cook will open Friday at the Present Day Club and continue through January 30. Hours will be from 9:30 to 6:30 daily except Sundays and during meetings.

The show will include larger works and a group of portraits of Princetonians which were not included in Mr. Cook's November exhibition at the Little Gallery.

Among those who have loaned their pictures for the exhibition are Mr. and Mrs. Insley B. Pyne, Col. and Mrs. James P. Barney, Mr. and Mrs. William Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Becker; Mr. and Mrs. Roger B. Kirkpatrick; Professor and Mrs. Marston Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Wright Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Perry Jr. and a portrait of Mrs. C. W. Link lent by the YWCA.

"Out-Guessing Machine." A machine that generally defeats human opponents in the game of matching pennies will be the subject of a talk next Thursday by Dr. David W. Hagelbarger of the Bell Telephone Laboratories. He will speak at 8 p.m. in Frick Auditorium on Washington Road under the sponsorship of the Princeton Section, Institute of Radio Engineers.

Members of the audience will be invited to play against the machine, which is known as a relay computer. It has consistently won more than it has lost against human players. Dr. Hagelberger has been working on special purpose computers for Bell Laboratories for the past few years.

Talk on Child Development. Dr. Julia W. Gordon, assistant in child study for the state Department of Education, will speak on "Child Growth and Development" this Tuesday evening at 8 in the Nassau Street School. The PTA meeting will be open to parents of children in either Borough elementary school.

Dr. Gordon is the author of "My Country School Diary", a best-seller that has been translated into six languages. She came to New Jersey as a helping teacher and later became rural supervisor under the Department of Education.

Subterranean Study. Headlined with "Masked Scholar of Library Subcellar Toils Four Years Over Rich Eccentric's Files", Roland E. Ely of 117 Mercer Street found himself the subject of a column by Meyer Berger, chief human interest writer of "The New York Times."

Mr. Ely caught Mr. Berger's attention for his four years research in a "cavernnous New York Public Library subbasement 30 feet under Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street." His studies are directed towards a Harvard Ph.D thesis.

Mr. Ely, a Princeton graduate with the Class of 1946, commutes to New York to work on some 1,000,000 brittle documents which should yield his thesis material. His subject is Moses Taylor (grandfather of Princeton's Moses Taylor Pyne), a 19th century New York banker who started as clerk and in 60 years amassed a $35,000,000 fortune.

Mr. Ely began his study at the suggestion of Robert G. Albion of Harvard, former professor of history at Princeton. His research is into the correspondence and accounts which were lodged in 63 uncatalogued, massive chests for more than 20 years before he began work on them.

Mr. Ely works from 9 to 5 with his entire face covered by a special mask to filter the dust and sand that rises from the letters. The sand is there from the 19th century clerical practice of using it to dry ink script.

The documents include letters, invoices, bills of lading, ship's papers, bank drafts and ledgers. They are in French and Spanish as well as English and Mr. Ely also had to spend six weeks acquiring a working knowledge of bookkeeping and accounting in order to understand the transactions, according to Mr. Berger.

Mr. Ely was forced to sort the documents and put the letters in chronological order, since the collection had been raided of its rare stamps and the papers left in confusion.

Mr. Ely has an adding machine in his subterranean study hall. He wears "a coverall in summer, a crimson bathrobe in winter, to protect his tweeds," Mr. Berger reports in characteristic style.

The task of digesting the material is still two or three years from completion.

The column also records the rumor that Mr. Ely is known as the "Hermit of the Basement."

Adult School to Open

The first session in the 10-week Adult School course will be held next Thursday night at Princeton High School. Twenty-four separate subjects are included in the varied curriculum.

Registration may be made from 4:30 to 6 and 8 to 9 p.m. this Thursday and Monday and Tuesday of next week at the Nassau Street School. No registration may be made by mail.

The course on "The Modern American Family" will last one hour and not two, as announced last week. It will run from 9 to 9:55 p.m.

The slate is headed by Gordon D. Griffin, nominated to serve as president for a third year. Miss Sarah P. Scott, vice-president, and Howard B. Waxwood Jr., secretary, have also been re-nominated, while Thomas E. Huntington is the nominee for treasurer.

Mrs. William K. Evans, Mrs. H. C. Hart and Mrs. DeWitt Jones have been nominated for three-year terms as directors, while Mrs. Maurice F. Healy Jr. has been re-nominated for another term on the board. Nominations may also be made from the floor.

Directors continuing on the board include Mrs. J. Douglas Brown, Mrs. Richard Lindabury, Mrs. Daniel Pierce, Mrs. John W. Tukey, Richard W. Colman, Dr. Jonathan Rowland and the Rev. Dr. William T. Parker. Members of the nominating committee were Mrs. Brown, Mrs. A. G. Shenstone, Mrs. Stanley Smoyer and Chester R. Stroup.

Surplus at Record Peak. The board of directors of Princeton Bank and Trust Company have authorized the addition of $100,000 to surplus from net earnings, credited to undivided profits in 1953 and 1954.

The combined capital and surplus of the bank now stands at $850,000, representing the greatest protection to depositors from this source in 120 years of operation. The addition to surplus will enable Bank and Trust to broaden its lending limits.

Total capital funds (capital, surplus and undivided profits) have been increased to $1,100,000, also a record high. The bank's position will be discussed in the forthcoming annual report which George R. Cook, 3d, president of the bank, will present at the stockholders' meeting on January 25.

FROM EDISON TO COLOR TELEVISION: The University Library, drawing upon the unique collection of tubes and bulbs maintained by Howard P. Schrader, of Princeton Junction (right), is commemorating the 75th anniversary of the incandescent lamp and the beginnings of the electronic industry with an exhibition in the Princetoniana Room. Here Mr. Schrader, whose collection numbers more than 6,000 electron-type tubes and electric light bulbs, is conversing with two brother scientists, Julius and John Madey, of Clark, N. J., both of whom have recently been licensed as full-fledged radio operators. Schrader is holding the original R.C.A. color television tube, while 11-year old John, in front of a portrait of Thomas Edison, is displaying the original Lawrence Color Tube.

Grant for Near East Studies. The Rockefeller Foundation has made a capital grant of $500,000 to Princeton University for its pioneering program in Near Eastern Studies. The grant will be used to support research, teacher-training and inter-departmental study in the program covering all aspects of life in the Moslem world.

The Near Eastern Studies program was inaugurated in 1947 and makes it possible for graduate and undergraduate students to concentrate in this area. A new departure in American education, the program provides a comprehensive presentation of all important features and institutions of the Moslem world, as well as a study of the maor Islamic lanuguages, Arabic, Persian and Turkish.

The program was launched with funds from the Rockefeller, Carnegie, William T. Grant and Cleveland H. Dodge foundations and has later received support from a number of companies interested in the Near East. It is operated under the Department of Oriental Languages and Literatures, headed by Professor T. Cuyler Young.

Clothier Named at Colorado. Richard Clothier of 92 Moore Street has been selected by "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" as one of the outstanding seniors at Colorado College of Colorado Springs.

Mr. Clothier is president of the student body of Colorado College. He is also a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, the Committee on Undergraduate Life, the Honor Council, the Foreign Student Committee and the Blue Key.

four years ago and its fabric and lining were still sturdy and in fine condition.

Talk over your ideas with him, select a fabric from a thick catalogue that includes imported tweeds from Holland or England and first-line domestic fabrics, such as Forstmann's. Choose your linings from a collection of heavy durable satins.

Mr. Ciccolella does repair work and alterations, too, even on a fine rare mink, and the years of experience in his fingers are your assurance of a craftsmanlike job. In the repair and altering department, he will take on your husband's overcoat or suit, but when it comes to creating from the whole cloth, he is a ladies' tailor.

For the past 33 years, Mr. Ciccolella has been a teacher at the School of Industrial Design in Trenton where he gives a class in sewing and tailoring. You may reach him in Princeton at 13 Witherspoon Street on the second floor, telephone 3079-W.

Dry Run. Latest bulletin from the University Cleaners and Laundry, 30 Moore, concerns a dry wash bundle that goes in and out within 24 hours, shirts neatly and professionally finished.

The charge for this service is 69c for eight pounds of laundry. Shirts are 21c apiece extra and when you get your bundle back, the shirts will not only be finished but re-buttoned if necessary. The rest of the bundle will be dry, unironed and neatly folded.

Bring in your bundle as late as 4:30 in the afternoon and get it back the same time tomorrow. If your weight is over eight pounds you pay nine cents for each additional pound. With this new service you have, of course, the extensive equipment of the professional laundry, with its special cleaning compounds and its soft water. You can put anything you like into the bundle—it's not exclusively a shirt service, but it's a convenient way of doing the family wash and getting clean shirts in a hurry.

If you pick up your bundle at the 30 Moore Street office the 10% discount will apply.

All Steel, No Stain. Members of the Revere family, their reputation as couriers and artisans secure for 200 years, are branching out a bit these days. To the line of copper bottom cooking ware, cherished by housewives who love the sheen of copper and the utility of stainless steel, Revere now adds a set of stainless steel canisters. You may buy them in sets of three for $12.95 at The Wright Store, 130 Nassau.

The canisters are drum shaped with tight lids and plain sides without lettering. You identify the contents of the canister by the hollow transparent knob on top. When you first fill the canister with coffee, sugar or whatever, you put a couple of tablespoons in this hollow handle on the lid. Then a glance tells you what's inside. (Suppose you use the canister for cookies, what goes in the knob—crumbs?)

Kook Kwik—and naming a product in this wise should be a Federal offense—may be old stuff to you but we'd never seen it before and it looks like a useful cooking aid. It's an aluminum alloy skewer about six inches long and one-quarter inch in diameter.

Spear a potato with it before baking, a rolled roast before roasting and the skewer will conduct heat to the heart of the matter, speeding up cooking time and saving you minutes and fuel. A set costs 98c.

Jolly Jug is a poor man's Skotch Kooler (made by the same company.) It's a red can with white polka-dots, completely insulated with a two-quart Ball canning jar inside, all for $1.98. Jar is easy to replace: the bottom of the Jug pulls out nad you slip a new canning jar in.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR: Professor Niels Hendrik David Bohr, 68-year-old Nobel Laureate in Physics and one of the "fathers" of the Atomic Age, is seen at Princeton Graduate College where he recently spoke at an evening Physics Seminar. The graduate students welcoming the eminent Danish scientist are Hugh Everett, a National Science Foundation Fellow in Physics, and David Harrison, Chairman of the Graduate College House Committee. It was nearly 16 years ago that Professor Bohr, at the Institute for Advanced Study this Fall, brought word from his Copenhagen laboratories of his thoughts about the possibility of splitting the uranium atom—the fundamental theory upon which the manufacture of the A-Bomb was based.

News of the Churches

Christian Science Statement. Officials of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Princeton have released a statement from Clarence E. Rader of the Christian Science Committee on Publication for New Jersey, explaining the position of the church on New Jersey Assembly Bill No. 265.

If this bill were passed, parents of public school children could request exemption for their children from the physical examination now required of all public school pupils by state law.

Opponents of the measure have expressed the opinion that the health of all children would be threatened if it were enacted into law. In his statement, Mr. Rader said: "We should like to point out that the proposed bill would in no way jeopardize the health of the community since Christian Scientists do report contagious diseases, as required by law, and they observe all quarantine regulations".

Referring to similar law enacted by many states, Mr. Rader said, "We have letters in our files from public health authorities affirming that in no instance has this law exempting children from physical examination been a detriment to the community.

"Christian Science children who receive a medical examination," Mr. Rader said, "undergo an experience contrary to their teachings in home, church and Sunday School, an experience that violates the basic principles of their religion. In this manner the state abridges their religious freedom. Bill No. 265 would avoid this conflict and insure greater freedom in the exercise of our religious beliefs."

Kennan Will Speak. George F. Kennan, former ambassador to the Soviet Union, will speak on "Christianity in Russia Today" at a meeting of the Men's Association of the First Presbyterian Church next Thursday in the social rooms of the church.

Members of the Men's Association of the Second and Witherspoon Presbyterian Churches have been invited to join the meeting and bring their guests. The public is also invited. Dinner is at 6:45 and the meeting is at 8 p.m.

Women's Group Meets. Four Princeton Theological Seminary students will give brief talks about their summer experiences at the annual meeting of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church this Monday at 3 p.m.

The students will describe their work in rural churches in Texas, in work camps in Germany, in industry, and on the choir tour of New England, Nova Scotia and the midwest. Circle 6 will be tea hostesses and the chairman is Mrs. Paul Gebhardt.

Union Services. A special music program for the new year has been arranged for this Sunday's 8 p.m. Union Presbyterian services by the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, pastor of the Witherspoon Church, and Mrs. Mary Krimmel, organist of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Robert P. Stone, soprano, from the First church will sing Hummel's "Alleluia!". Don Mason, organist from First church, has chosen as a prelude, du Bois' "Entree en Forme de Carillon". The same composer's "Elevation" will be performed as an Offertory, and as a postlude, Mr. Mason will play the Bach Fugue in E minor. The Rev. Anderson will speak on "The Kingdom of God".

Vespers at 5 p.m. will be in the Chapel of the First Church with the Rev. Anderson speaking on the theme of "Christian Grace."

REGULAR SERVICES

Presbyterian. Seminary Sunday will be observed by three Presbyterian congregations in the Princeton area at their morning services this Sunday. Students and seminary officials will speak of the role that seminaries play in the educational work of the church, both here and abroad.

At the First Presbyterian Church, two guest speakers will address the 9:30 and 11 a.m. congregations. They are the Rev. Robert Rankin, Executive Director of the Rockefeller Brothers Theological Fellowship Program and Mr. Lewis Mudge, graduate student at Princeton Theological Seminary and assistant in instruction in the department of religion at Princeton.

Second Presbyterian Church will observe the day with a ser-

The New Jersey Poll

PRESIDENT IS EXPECTED TO BE CANDIDATE AGAIN IN '56, SURVEY REVEALS

What are President Eisenhower's intentions for 1956? Will he run again as the GOP candidate for the nation's top post? Mr. Eisenhower himself has as yet not revealed his intentions one way or the other. Notwithstanding this, a solid majority of voters questioned in a recent statewide New Jersey Poll are of the opinion that Mr. Eisenhower will be a candidate for President in 1956.

When New Jersey Poll Staff reporters put this question to a cross-section of voters across the state:

"As you see it today, do you think President Eisenhower will or will not be a candidate for President in 1956?"

The statewide vote:

Will be candidate	60%
Will not	31
No opinion	9

Among the state's rank and file GOP members, 68 percent believe that the President will be a candidate compared to 58 per cent of the Independents and 54 per cent of the Democrats.

A second question in today's survey shows that nearly as many people — 58 per cent — say they would like to see President Ike run again in 1956.

"Would you personally like to see Eisenhower run for President in 1956, or not?"

Yes, would	58%
No, would not	26
No opinion	16

Survey results show that among rank and file GOP members, those who would like to see Ike run again outnumber by a margin of better than 8 to 1 those who would not. Among the state's Independents, those who would like to see him run again outnumber those who would not by a margin of 5 to 2.

At the same time, sentiment is very closely divided among Democratic Party members. The vote by political party affiliation:

	Rep.	Dem.	Ind.
Yes	85%	40%	60%
No	10	40	24
No opinion	5	20	16

An interesting aspect about Mr. Eisenhower's term in office thus far has been the absence of wide fluctuations in his popularity with New Jersey voters. For example, New Jersey Poll surveys made periodically show that at no time during the President's term in office have fewer than 63 per cent of the state's voters expressed approval of the way Mr. Eisenhower is handling his job. And at no time have more than 28 in each 100 expressed disapproval.

Latest New Jersey Poll survey reported two weeks ago showed the following: Approve, 63 per cent; Disapprove, 28 per cent; No opinion, 9 per cent.

Police Given Approval. Rank and file New Jersey citizens approve of the way their local police force is handling its job. This was the finding of a recent statewide New Jersey Poll survey.

More than 3 out of every 4 adult citizens questioned in the survey personally told staff reporters that they approved of the way their local police force is doing its job.

Those who said this outnumbered by a margin of better than 4 to 1 those who expressed disapproval.

These were the findings when New Jersey Poll staff reporters put the following question to a representative cross-section of the state's adult citizens:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way the police force in your community is handling its job?"

Approve	78%
Disapprove	18
No opinion	4

Analysis of the various population groups on the question of the way their local police force is handling its job shows that in every population group examined at least 2 out of every 3 in each group express approval of their local police force. In no single population group do more than 26 in each 100 express disapproval. These groups include men and women, home owners and home renters, as well as people in all city sizes, age groups, occupations, educational levels and political parties.

An interesting sidelight in today's survey is that the smaller the community, the greater the approval of their police force. At the same time, in every city size, those who express approval of their local police force outnumber those who express disapproval by a margin of more than 2½ to 1.

PRINCETON TELEVISION

"Princeton '55" got off to a highly satisfactory start with Gabriel A. Almond's presentation of "Communists, and Who They Are." Next in the television series (Sundays at 3, Channel 4) will be "The Enjoyment of Poetry" with Robert Frost and Professor Lawrance Thompson.

Dr. Almond's program impressed for the highly important reason that it offered subject matter which simply can't be found in commercial television. Only a tiny fraction of Americans have the slightest knowledge of their communist opponents and the television program made significant facts available in an interesting fashion.

Four actors joined Dr. Almond in a series of short "interviews" which dramatized four types of communists. Dr. Almond's narration was thoughtful and effective in knitting together the program.

The impression that the 25,000-member American Communist Party is made up exclusively of neurotics flickered through this viewer's mind, but the overall material was too interesting to make this a major objection. Contrasts between the American and Italian Communist Parties were particularly well brought out.

NBC put on what seemed to be an "inexpensive" production, but as in the earlier "Princeton '54" series, technical difficulties do not create too great an obstacle when the content is as strong as that of shows like "Communists, and Who They Are." Princeton's new series is off to a good start in holding a remarkable place in the field of educational television.

McCARTER THEATRE

Virtual sellouts by the start of this week have made Saturday's matinee the best remaining chance for Princetonians to see "Tonight in Samarkand" before its Broadway opening at the end of this month.

The Parisian hit is playing four performances here at the McCarter before moving on to Boston for its only other tryout period. Set in backstage French carnival atmosphere, the Jacques Deval play includes trick effects and activities such as juggling acrobatics.

Louis Jourdan, the youthful French actor who has become a star in American films, is cast in the leading role of a magician and crystal-gazer who (along with many others) is attracted to the carnival's star lady tiger-tamer, played by Felicia Montealegre, rated as one of "the world's ten most beautiful women."

Herman Shumlin, one of New York's best known directors, has had charge of the production. The adaption from the French original is by the fiction and TV writer Lorenzo Semple Jr., whose father was a recent Princeton resident. Sets are by Ben Edwards.

CHILDREN'S SERIES

The opening of the 23rd Children's Entertainment Series is set for this coming Wednesday at 3:30 with a production of "Sinbad the Sailor" at McCarter Theatre. Tickets may be obtained by writing to 80 Murray Place and the McCarter box office will open at 1 p.m. on Wednesday.

The production of "Sinbad the Sailor" will be by the Children's World Theatre Company, a professional theatre group which has specialized for the past eight years in providing theatre adapted specially for children.

The adaption of the classic Sinbad story includes travel to a magic Isle of Genii. The play is designed for children in grades one through eight and includes duels and various adventures on the magic island.

The children's series is sponsored by the Borough elementary schools PTA. Succeeding programs will include productions by the Children's World Theatre of "The Little Red Shoes," February 2 and "The Ghost of Mr. Penny," March 2, and a performance by the children's group of the Princeton Ballet Society on May 20.

THE ABC'S OF INSULATION
Insulation forms a barrier between the outside air and the inside air. In winter, the hot air is held in and the cold air is held out. In summer, the hot air is kept out and the cool inside air is kept in.
The principle of insulation is simple, but deciding on the right type of insulation for your home is more difficult. That's where Grover Lumber comes in.
We'll be glad to send our representative over. He'll tell you the type and amount you need and show you how to install it yourself.

CONCERT PERFORMERS: The Societa Corelli, a 14-member concert group founded to mark the 300th anniversary of Arcangelo Corelli, will appear in the McCarter next Tuesday at 8:30 in the third concert of Series Two. University Concerts. The group is making its first tour of this country after three years of notable success in Europe.

Music in Princeton

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

The Societa Corelli, first organized to mark the 300th anniversary of the birth of the one of the great figures of the early classical period in Italy, Arcangelo Corelli, will perform here at the McCarter next Tuesday evening at 8:30.

Tickets for the third concert in Series Two of the Princeton University Concerts are now on sale at the University Store (tel. 3333) and will be available at the box office before the performance.

The Societa Corelli is made up of eight violins, two violas, two cellos, a contrabass and a piano. The members are young musicians who have won individual acclaim before joining in the group which is particularly noted for its ensemble musicianship.

The group has an extensive repetoire, based on the 12 concerti grossi of Corelli. In addition, the Societa Corelli performs the orchestral works of his leading contemporaries, Handel, Vivaldi, Scarlatti, Geminiani and others. Little known works by later composers have been added to the works of the early classical era.

The society will play for their Princeton concert an "Arie Antiche" by Vinci, two concertos by Vivaldi, a concerto grosso and suite by Corelli, a suite by Marcello and the "Simple Symphony" by Britten.

MUSICAL AMATEURS

The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will hold its January meeting this Sunday starting with supper at 5:15 in the gymnasium of Miss Fine's School.

Dr. J. Merrill Knapp will direct the group in the singing of "Missa Pangua Lingua" by Josquin and motets by Lassus and Palestrina. Persons planning to attend should notify Mrs. MacKenty Bryan by 4:30 p.m. this Thursday.

Short Notes. Princeton "Friends of the Philharmonic" attended a special rehearsal in Carnegie Hall of the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra on Thursday with George Szell conducting and Claudia Arrau as soloist.

Mrs. Barton Thomas of 162 Mercer Street heads the Princeton committee. The open rehearsals are part of a program to provide financial support for the Philharmonic - Symphony, a 113-year-old organization which is known as this country's oldest orchestra.

Tigers in Trouble. Much of the future of Princeton's basketball team will be decided between now and Monday night. Two tough Ivy League contests in 48 hours confront the slow-starting Tigers, who must reverse sharply the path of defeat they have been following since mid-December.

Having lost to four Big Ten teams in a row, the quintet's record is now a very meagre one out of seven, for Lafayette took the season's opener and Fordham spilled the Orange and Black on Monday night, 66-58. A continuation of this trend will leave the team in a lowly position when the two-week break for examinations starts a week from Saturday.

Pennsylvania's sizzling hot operatives, loser in their first seven games only to Pittsburgh in overtime, entertain the Princetonians in the Palestra on Saturday. The Quakers were favored to trim weak Yale and Harvard entries in mid-week contests, and rate as the choice over the Tiger five this weekend.

Last season, Princeton dropped the Red and Blue twice—by a thin 61-59 margin at Philadelphia and then by a comfortable 77-61 in Dillon Gym. However, Bart Leach, Joe Sturges and a pair of sophomores, Lou Bayne and Paul Rubinetam, have Coach Ray Stanley's squad off to an extremely fast start this year.

Two Defeats in Mid-West. The Tigers nearly had a victory wrapped up in their first game on a holiday trip into Big Ten territory. Playing Wisconsin at Madison, they had come from behind to take a 64-63 lead and were in possession with 35 seconds to go.

Ability to freeze should have won for them but a poor pass was intercepted by guard Dick Miller, who dribbled the length of the floor and made good on a lay-up. Fouled as he shot, he converted the free toss and gave the Badgers a 66-64 triumph. Dick Batt of the Tigers could have sent the contest into overtime when he was fouled just before the game ended but he missed both tries.

Big Don Davidson, a 6-1 sophomore, has been learning quickly and was in double figures for both games in the west. He threw in 13 against Wisconsin and 18 two nights later against Northwestern, leading the Tigers in field goal production in the latter fray.

Wisconsin had a 27-20 lead at half-time, and was ahead until the clock began to run out. The Tigers's surge in the closing minutes was paced by Owen Roberts, whose return to his home town was an apparent assist in his play. He racked up ten points in a little over eight minutes. Roberts is a Wisconsin transfer to Princeton.

Haabestad Still Hot. Captain Bud Haabestad continued his high-scoring, collecting 21 points against Wisconsin and 23 against Northwestern. Four Princetonians were in double figures in the first game, John DeVoe joining Haabestad, Davidson and Roberts, but 28 points for Dick Cable of the victors went far to assure the eventual triumph.

It was not much of a contest at Evanston on Friday night once the second half got under way. The home team lead throughout most of the first period, but could not build up more than a 39-36 advantage at the intermission. When action resumed, however, the Wildcats took charge and with five minutes left in the game, their lead stood at 85-65. It was a 93-83 final.

SHARPSHOOTER: Captain Bud Haabestad has made 163 points for a fine 21.3 average in the Tigers' first seven games this season.

Poor foul shooting has continued to hinder the Princeton contingent, which was awarded the unusually high total of 54 free shots in the Northwestern game but could make only 37 of them. Haabestad missed eight of the 19 he drew.

Lack of consistent scoring ability on the part of any member of the squad save Haabestad has hampered the Tigers. For example, senior John Easton collected but three points in the two games. DeVoe could not get a held goal against Northwestern and Roberts was held scoreless in the latter game after his good work against Wisconsin.

Halftime Lead Lost. Against Fordham, the Tigers played well during the first half and the early part of the second period. They held a 34-31 lead over the Rams on the New York court Monday night, and were tied at 48-all with ten minutes to go.

From that point on, however, the Maroon took virtually complete charge. Ed Conlin and Billy Lyons of the victors (who accounted for 30 points between them) continued to dominate the scoring. The Tigers on the other hand lost their touch entirely, making only two field goals in the last nine minutes of play.

Superior rebounding aided the Orange and Black in the first half, with the team showing a good brand of basketball. Haabestad was hitting well, as were Easton and DeVoe, and chances of an upset appeared fairly good.

Fordham's second-half play improved steadily, however, while Princeton's deteriorated to a marked degree. Center Dick Batt fouled out but the game was remarkably clear of rules infractions. Twenty-three personals were called, only nine of them against the home forces.

Haabstad accounted for 17 points but went into total eclipse

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

in the second half, when he could make only a lone free throw. John DeVoe had his best night of the season with 16, while Easton was also in double figures with 12.

These three, Batt and Davidson were the starting quintet, Tom Dailey and Owen Roberts were the only substitutes Cappy Cappon used.

So it is that the Tigers will go into the Palestra against what appears to be a better balanced Quaker quintet than the one that Ernie Beck paced to the title two seasons ago. The Red and Blue figures to have an 8-1 record against the Princetonians' 1-6 at game-time.

If the Tigers cannot take that one, a loss on Penn's home court will not be costly. The big squeeze, however, will come Monday night when a Dartmouth quintet that has been the surprise of the Ivy League moves into Dillon Gym. Game-time is 8 p.m.

Paced by an able group of sophomores, the Green won its first seven in a row and is now rated as a title contender with Penn and Cornell, above Princeton. The Indians face Cornell at Ithaca this Saturday night before moving into Princeton on a tough three-day road trip.

It is virtually essential that the Orange and Black win this one to stay in the picture. Otherwise, a 1-2 record at the exam break (Harvard will be here a week from Saturday) is the best it can do, leaving it with the necessity of winning at least nine of its last ten to stand a shot at first place.

Hockey Team Travels. Princeton's hockey team goes into Ivy League action at Dartmouth this Saturday, seeking a victory over the Green as insurance for a place somewhere in the middle of the standings when the season ends early in March. Defending champion Harvard and Brown seem somewhat stronger than Yale, Dartmouth and Princeton as the campaign begins.

Brown plays at Yale this weekend in another contest marking the start of activity in the newly-named circuit. Formed as the Quadrangular League, it became the Pentagonal League when Army was added before the war. The cadets later dropped out and Brown replaced them, with the Ivy label being sewn on this year to replace the Pentagonal designation.

Providence College was Wednesday's opposition for the Tigers, with the outcome of this contest and the visitor's game against Yale the previous night figured to give some comparison between the Tigers and the Elis. Dick Vaughan will take his team to West Point Wednesday to play Army, with Brown scheduled to come to Baker Rink next Saturday at 2.

A two-week examination break will follow, with American International here to begin the season's second half Saturday, January 29. The team's record in its first five games is 2-3.

Weekend Schedule. Weekend vents include a swimming meet this Friday night against Cornell in Dillon Pool. Starting time is 7 o'clock.

On Saturday, the freshmen and the varsity will take on Rutgers in wrestling in the Gym, with the first meet starting at 2:30 and the main event at 4. Freshman hockey against the jayvees is scheduled in Baker Rink at 2, with the 1958 basketball and squash teams in action in the Gym at 2:30.

An Ideal Gone Wrong. Spring practice isn't likely to return to the Ivy League this year but there are indications that the one big reason for reconsidering the ban is gaining in importance. Presidents of the eight colleges (with Princeton dissenting) eliminated football in the off-season as a means of de-emphasizing the sport in the belief that the move strengthened their institutions' overall academic purpose. It was all right to play the sport in the fall, they reasoned, but if you practiced in the spring as a means of playing it a little better, your policy in guiding a student toward his diploma was open to question.

SOPHOMORE POWER: Dan Davidson, 6-4 newcomer to the Tiger varsity, is coming along well to earn a starting position.

Now, however, it is becoming increasingly apparent that injuries at Ivy colleges are greater without spring practice. This stems from two factors: lack of time to show the majority of members of the squad the fundamentals of the game, knowledge of which teaches them how best to take care of themselves in the rough going; and lack of time to test the proper equipment.

On the latter point, Dr. Harry R. McPhee, team physician, has been quoted in this fashion:

"The real medical damage from lack of spring practice is in the

THE PLAYHOUSE

There's No Business Like Show Business (Jan. 6-8) combines the notable talents of Ethel Merman, Donald O'Connor, Marilyn Monroe, Dan Dailey, Mitzi Gaynor and Johnnie Ray in a series of fabulous production numbers in CinemaScope and color. The story's about a vaudeville family that puts across many a song and dance as it goes along to stardom, etc. The stream of "show people" and Irving Berlin songs should provide enough entertainment for all.

Phfft (Jan. 9-11) is an oftentimes amusing little comedy about a half-wit couple who get divorced, try to stay apart and get back together. Trouble is, the whole thing borders on being half-witted. Judy Holliday, Jack Lemmon, Jack Carson and Kim Novak are the principals. Some bright lines.

THE GARDEN

The Human Jungle (Jan. 7-8) tells a fast, tough cop story in semi-documentary fashion. Gary Merrill plays a police captain who tries to clean up his new precinct. Plenty of excitement and roughness ensue in tracking down a big time killer (well-played by Chuck Connors). Jan Sterling and Paula Raymond are the women involved.

Bread, Love and Dreams (Jan. 10-13) is a winning Italian import (English subtitles) centering on the love problems of an aging bachelor police marshal (Vittorio De Sica) and a young wench (Gina Lollobrigida). The film is a warm, amusing situation comedy, well done and well acted.

Fire Over Africa (Jan. 14-15) is a fairly dreadful little fake about present day smuggling in Tangier. Maureen O'Hara and MacDonal Carey struggle around with a staggering plot, set against a Technicolor background. Playing with it is the film "This Is Your Army," much of which was made at nearby Camp Kilmer.

FILM CLASSIC SERIES

The Group Arts Film Classic Series will resume this Friday, with the showing of "The Last Laugh." Screenings will be at 7 and 9 p.m. in McCosh Hall 50 on the University Campus. Tickets at 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults will be sold at the door.

"The Last Laugh" is a German tragedy starring Emil Jannings. Running on the same bill will be another in the series of Charlie Chaplin two-reel comedies.

equipment question. Spring practice was our lab.

"We want the boys to have the finest equipment available and that was our time for testing it. We put samples of pads, helmets, shoes and so forth through exhaustive tests of every type and then decided on what we would use. Now we don't have time to try out all the stuff available and it is harder to make sure we have the best."

The contention of those who feel that spring practice not only makes football more enjoyable to watch but is far better from the players' point of view supplements Dr. McPhee's comments. Many coaches report that a boy insufficiently trained in the fundamentals of the game leaves himself more open to injury. Last-minute personnel switches and inadequate blocking and tackling ability combine to lengthen the injury list, and the seriousness of many injuries.

Since the ban was placed in effect three years ago, the trend has been going steadily upward here. Whereas the number of days lost per injury when spring practice was allowed was four, the figure doubled two seasons ago and was higher than that last fall. In 1950, no one was lost for the season through injury; last year, there were six such cases.

THE BEST NUMBER to call for results in classified advertising is 2201. The best proof is the number of ads running in this issue. Call TOWN TOPICS or bring your ad to 4 Mercer St. by Tuesday afternoon.

Golf Clinic Planned

A golf clinic consisting of five one-hour meetings has been planned by the YMCA for inclusion in the group of informal courses it will give this winter. Harry Kinnell, Springdale Golf Club pro, will instruct.

Those who enroll will learn the fundamentals of golf, including grip and stance, swing, the use of different clubs, as well as the rules and etiquette of golf. Kinnell is coach of Princeton University's freshman and varsity teams in the sport.

The first of five weekly sessions will be held Thursday, February 17, from 8 to 9 p.m. at the Y's Witherspoon center. Registration should be made there (tel. 1849) as early as possible, since enrollment will be limited.

The Ivy Group apparently remains firm in its stand, and swings enough weight so that various eastern independents are being told that if they want to play Ivy games, spring practice is out. Two examples are Rutgers and Colgate, who meet three or four Ivy teams each fall and have now abandoned spring drills in order to remain "eligible" for such simon-pure rivalries.

Whether the situation will change in the foreseeable future is still a matter of some doubt, but a number of those who are closest to the picture answer in the negative. What makes the ban so illogical is that it's an ideal gone wrong: de-emphasis of the sport has served primarily to decrease the players' enjoyment in participation and to increase the risk they run in incurring injuries through lack of adequate time to learn the game as it is played today.
